NAMED, NOT NUMBERED

The Editions

Applied graphics and embroidery on the SML 2s tooling. Both are about a person rather than a colourway.

Embroidery on suede is the question here. The roses and the wings are the reason these two exist, so we need to know what you can hold at this scale before either is committed to a run.

WHAT WE ARE ASKING

Four questions

Short answers are fine. We are choosing a production partner and would rather hear what you actually run than have you quote what we asked for.

1. Which lasts and sole units do you already hold that these could be built on? We are not asking you to tool anything for a first season, and we would rather use your library than commission our own. Photos or a sample would help.
2. What is your minimum order per colourway at this specification?
3. What does a first sample cost, and how long does it take?
4. Can you run a flex-tested metallic gold leather or PU? Metallic finishes crack at the flex point, and we would rather specify one you already run than name one blind.

What we know so far

ITEM	POSITION
First run	Two colourways. Small on purpose.
Tooling	None. Stock last and stock sole unit for season one.
Upper	Full-grain leather and suede. Metallic gold detailing.
Branding	3D moulded applique and debossed foil — not embroidery on the leather models. Embroidery is needed on the two editions.
Colour	Pantone TCX to be confirmed against physical swatches. We will not send hex values as a colour standard.
Sizing	US men's 7–13 including half sizes. Sample at 9.
Market	Direct to consumer, United States.

These are design concepts, not photographs. No pair exists yet. The images are digital renders made while the shoes are being specified, and the specification is what we would build from — not the picture. Where the specification says UNKNOWN, it means we do not know yet and would like you to tell us.
